Summary & Notes

This document contains a listing of the membership of the University Faculty Senate, the full memberships of all University Faculty Senate committees, and the faculty membership of Administrative Committees (on which the administration provided information). University-level committees with no faculty members (or only faculty members with administrative status) are not included in this document. Charges of ad-hoc committees, when available, are also included in this document.

Unless otherwise noted a faculty member’s term on a committee expires on June 15\textsuperscript{th} of the specified year. For example, if an individual’s term is expiring 2022, then that means the individual will serve on the committee through June 15\textsuperscript{th}, 2022.

This Membership document and the Committee Policy Document, containing committee charges and descriptions, can be found on the University Faculty Senate “Committees” webpage: https://facultysenate.richmond.edu/committees/index.html

For updates and corrections please contact Kate Cassada, the Chair of the Committee on Committees for the Academic Year 2021-2022.

Details:
Term: Through April 1, 2022.
Charge: See below

Motion to Establish Ad Hoc Committee on Black Student Enrollment

- Whereas the University Faculty Senate supports the goal of making the University a recognized highly attractive institution for Black American / African American (hereafter Black) students, as well as students of color in general;
- Whereas the Senate recognizes that achieving this goal likely will entail changes in many areas of university life, from recruiting and admissions to campus climate and social life;
- Whereas faculty have both unique expertise to bring to bear on many of these issues as well as a long-term stake in the continued evolution and progress of the university;
- Whereas the work of recruiting, enrolling, and retaining Black students, and assuring Black students have a positive experience at the University of Richmond, does not fall within the sole purview of any existing Committee;

The Senate hereby moves to establish an ad hoc committee focused on increasing the application, yield, and retention rates of Black students at the University of Richmond;

Charge: 1) Examine the University's policies and practices for recruitment of Black students for undergraduate and graduate programs, including, but not limited to, canvassing current students about life on campus and the education they are offered; 2) Recommend specific policies and practices aimed at significantly improving the application, yield, and retention of Black students, particularly in our traditional undergraduate programs at Richmond; 3) Make other recommendations as may occur to the Committee as important to advancing these goals, including establishing an accountability framework to monitor progress on this issue.

The Committee will have broad latitude in how it goes about its work. However, it is expected that the Committee include the following steps in its work:

- Ascertaining current policies and practices, as well as recommendations for changes and improvements, from existing university committees as well as staff members whose work clearly relates to these goals, such as (but not limited to) the incoming Director of Admissions for Diversity Outreach and Partnerships;
- Speaking with current and former Black UR students to ascertain with specificity both problematic and positive aspects of their UR education as well as recommended steps to make UR more attractive to Black students;
- Documenting as applicable existing institutional or policy factors which tend to inhibit achievement of this goal and hence should be reconsidered;
- Learning from best practices at similarly-situated institutions;
- Developing new ideas appropriate to our specific resources, history, and advantages that may be helpful in advancing this goal, including identification of an ongoing mechanism to track progress and ensure accountability;
- Identifying potential new or enhanced resources to attract, support and retain Black students;
- Make both specific, immediately actionable recommendations and identify medium and longer-term needed actions in its final report.

Term and Reporting requirements: The ad hoc committee shall be formed by April 1, 2021 and complete its work and final report by April 1, 2022. It shall provide an interim report by two weeks prior to the last meeting of the Faculty Senate in the Fall 2021 semester. (Meeting during the summer months is not expected.) The interim report may include recommendations for immediate actions to be implemented within the 2021-22 academic year.

Membership: Three faculty members from A&S, one faculty member each from RSB and JSLS, and two student members. Faculty members should be appointed based on interest and experience. Student members are to be identified and appointed by the faculty on the committee as part of their work, with approval of the UFS Committee on Committees.

General Education Curriculum Implementation Committee

Student Membership (non-voting):
Westhampton College: Lindsey Stevens (WC)
Richmond College: Aamy Bakry (RC)

Details:
Term: 2021-22 Academic Year

Charge:
The Charge. The General Education Curriculum (GEC) at the University of Richmond is the set of required courses that all undergraduates must pass prior to graduation. After two years of drafting and responding to community feedback by the GEC Improvement Committee (GECIC), the university faculty voted on May 17, 2021 to approve the committee’s proposal, “The Web of Inquiry.” The curriculum is defined by a set of Areas of Inquiry, each of which intersect with Integrated Focus areas. The GEC Implementation Committee (GECImp) is tasked with making recommendations regarding the curricular, administrative, and financial needs to fully and successfully implement the Web of Inquiry curriculum. Such recommendations shall take into account the GECIC’s recommendations for implementation and include standards and processes for course vetting and inclusion (including what elements of the curriculum must be completed at the University), curriculum oversight, instructor training, budgeting for necessary resources, and a communication plan for the roll-out of the Web of Inquiry curriculum. The GECImp shall also consider the GECIC’s recommendations to it regarding the Integrated Learning Pilot Program, approved by the university faculty on May 17, 2021. The GECImp’s final report shall provide an explanation for any implementation recommendation(s) from the GECIC that it chose not to undertake. Given the GEC’s central role in our students’ educational experience and the participation of faculty from across the university, a well-designed and clearly communicated plan is critical to the successful implementation of the new curriculum.

The Product. The GEC Implementation Committee will prepare a proposal that addresses necessary resources, governance bodies, and administrative structures to fully and successfully implement the Web of Inquiry curriculum by Fall 2023.

The Process. The Faculty Senate will convene a General Education Curriculum Implementation Committee that includes faculty members from the School of Arts & Sciences, the Robins School of Business, and the Jepson School of Leadership Studies. A good faith effort will be made to constitute the committee by August 2021. The Senate Committee on Committees may choose to name no more than one continuing member of the GEC Improvement Committee to the GEC Implementation Committee, and no member of the Improvement Committee may chair the Implementation Committee. If no member from the Improvement Committee is named as a voting member of the Implementation Committee, then one continuing member may be named as a non-voting member. This General Education Curriculum Implementation Committee shall begin its work by September 2021 and end by March 1, 2022, with an extension if necessary. The GEC Implementation Committee will identify its chairperson or co-chairs at its first meeting. The GEC Process Committee, the GEC Review Committee, and the GEC Improvement Committee chairs will make available all documents and data generated by the proposal process during 2017-21, including final reports. The GEC Implementation Committee should hold an organizational meeting soon after the start of the fall semester and then meet regularly until the end of the semester. The Committee shall actively seek input from previous GEC proposal committees and the standing General Education Committee as well as individual departments and programs, especially those that contribute to the General Education curriculum. A detailed progress report is to be provided to the Senate by December 1, 2021. The chair or co-chairs of this committee are expected to be available for regular communication on progress with the Senate President and any Senators designated for this purpose throughout the entire process. A complete and detailed implementation proposal for the Web of Inquiry curriculum should be presented to the Faculty Senate, relevant faculty governance bodies, administrators, and the university faculty by March 1, 2022 for approvals. (The committee should be prepared to spend more time shepherding the proposal, if necessary, and the Senate may request revisions before forwarding the proposal to the university faculty). The university faculty shall vote on the final implementation proposal. Ratification of the Web of Inquiry curriculum shall depend on the approval of the implementation proposal by the university faculty. If GECImp should recommend any changes in specific details of the Web of Inquiry curriculum as part of its implementation proposal, those changes should be noted and voted upon by the university faculty in conjunction with the implementation proposal.

Membership: The committee membership will include four faculty from A&S, two from RSB, and one from Jepson; two students ex officio (one from Westhampton College and one from Richmond College); one ex officio representative of the Provost’s Office; one ex officio member from the Registrar’s Office; and one ex officio continuing member from the General Education Curriculum Improvement Committee.

Faculty Representative: Emily Boone (A&S)
Faculty Representative: Jeff Carlson (RSB)
Faculty Representative: Trey Sutton (RSB)

Details:
Reports to: Provost (Contact: Rob Andrejewski, Director of Sustainability)
Term: Through December 2021
Charge: The aim of the 10-person group, which will include students, faculty, and staff, will be to generate a conservation and stewardship advisory document for the Gambles Mill Eco-Corridor. The Task Force will address the following guiding question: What steps does the University need to take to steward Little Westham Creek and the Gambles Mill Eco-Corridor while maximizing the educational, ecological, and cultural resources and opportunities within the Eco-Corridor in alignment with University mission and values?

The Task Force will meet during Spring 2021 and Fall 2021 to develop a report with final recommendations to senior leaders by December 2021. The report will consider educational opportunities, conservation and management issues (including invasive species management, landscape maintenance, and storm water infrastructure), recreational use, cultural history, and any threats to the integrity, stability, and beauty of the area. The report will also outline conservation and financial resources necessary to maintain ecosystem health and long-term maintenance of the Eco-Corridor. The Eco-Corridor Stewardship Task Force will develop their findings in collaboration with University faculty, staff, and students, as well as stakeholders in the surrounding community. The Task Force may also engage the services of professional experts.

Ethics Initiative Committee will revisit composition and charge in late summer 2021.

Faculty Representative: Jess Flanigan
Faculty Representative: TBD
Faculty Representative: Monti Datta
Faculty Representative: Miriam McCormick
Faculty Representative: Richard Coughlan
Faculty Representative: Christopher Corts
Faculty Representative: Tom Shields

Details:

Reports to: Provost’s Office (Contact: Sandra Peart)

Term: Through the 2020-2021 Academic Year Ongoing (dates TBD)

Charge: The need: At national and local levels and on college campuses, we find ourselves challenged by divisive times. These challenges make apparent the need for substantive discussions and training around ethical dilemmas. Ethics initiatives do not prescribe the answers but they can help students understand the moral issues at stake, talk about issues with intellectual sophistication, live lives of purpose and consequence, and assume positions of ethical leadership. In business, politics, science, law, and leadership, the need for an education in ethics is profound and employers increasingly recognize this need. The University of Richmond will distinguish itself with an integrated approach across our five schools. There is no ethics initiative in the national landscape that has our strength and breadth. We can excel in preparing students to lead in professions that increasingly demand ethics training. The committee charge: In the next six months, we will assess programs in Ethics at the University of Richmond and explore ways to build on our existing strengths, significantly advancing our mission to educate students for lives of purpose and responsible leadership. The committee will:

1) Assess what is presently underway within and across Schools;
2) Identify options for additional ethics education, including
   • Curricular – Expansion of ethics courses and course sequences across the curriculum (add coherence to current course offerings)
   • Practice – Extension of programming to co-curricular
   • Outward-facing elements – Sponsored speakers, symposia, lectures, conferences, web presences, and other public elements;
3) Consider resource needs, including faculty and staff as well as facilities, and estimate costs.

Our Ethics Initiative will add a unique, 5 School twist to the ethics programs of other universities. We will take advantage of already existing strengths and put a distinctive UR stamp on such conversations.

Appendix: Other University Service

This document only contains details on committee service by faculty on faculty senate committees or university-level service as provided by the administration. It should be noted that in addition to committee service, faculty are involved in many other service activities at the university-level, these include, but are not limited to:²

- Serving on committees/advisory groups for cross-school academic programs/majors (e.g. WGSS, HCS, PPEL, etc.)
- Serving as mentors for students in various different programs (e.g. the Richmond Scholars program, etc.)
- Serving on standing groups related to academic honors (e.g. Phi Beta Kappa, etc.)
- Serving on pop-up committees related to campus events (e.g. Black History Month Committee, etc.)
- Helping student groups (e.g. Faculty/Staff Advisors to Student Groups, etc.)
- Participating in orientation activities (e.g. Roadmap Program, etc.)
- Participating in Living and Learning programs (e.g. Richmond Endeavor, SSIR, etc.)
- Participating in Residential Life programs (e.g. College Fellows, etc.)
- Participating in Graduation activities (e.g. picking the student speakers, marshalling, Head Marshall on Commencement Committee, etc.)
- Participating in and helping organize academic, co-curricular, and non-academic panels/events (e.g. Residential Life Hall Events, etc.)
- Assisting with the Fellowship Programs (e.g. Fellowship Nomination Panels, etc.)
- Assisting with student interviews (e.g. Health Professions Committee, etc.)
- Assisting with Admissions activities (e.g. Snapshots, Admissions Panels, etc.)³
- Serving in expanded academic advising roles (e.g. the First Generation advising group, etc.)
- Leading trips (e.g. CEE trips, International trips, etc.)
- And a variety of other ad-hoc activities around campus…

In short, many faculty are actively and enthusiastically engaged in University life and regularly partner with offices and individuals around campus to serve the University community, especially the students.

² It should be noted that some, but not all, of this service may intersect with a faculty member's teaching and research activities and in some cases is also financially compensated.

³ A large number of faculty partner with Admissions in a variety of activities, including allowing students to attend their classes and take part in admissions events.
